Scattered Jap Units Are Being Mopped Up In New Guinea Area

(International News Service)

UNITED NATIONS HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, Jan. 20.—American and Australian jungle troops drove eastward along the Papuan coast today mopping up scattered Japanese units that escaped death or capture when the last enemy strongholds on Sananda Point fell to the Allied forces.

The Japanese suffered heavy casualties as the Allied columns swept along the coastal fringe toward the tiny village of Giruwa, clearing out the last pockets of resistance. The Japs fought bitterly and only 27 prisoners were taken.

Jap Bombers Foiled

Japanese bombers made successful attempts to interfere with the Allied mopping-up operations which continued relentlessly. Four enemy bombers were over the Milne Bay area, on the eastern tip of New Guinea, in night attacks that caused no damage. A single Japanese float plane attacked Merauke, on the south New Guinea shore.

Allied bombing attacks on nearby Japanese bases set fires in supply dumps at Salamaua, on New Guinea, and smashed the airdrome at Gasmata, on the southern shore of New Britain.

Long-range fighters strafed Japanese troop quarters and roads on Timor, and a squadron of medium bombers demolished numerous buildings at Toeal, in the Kai islands, which lie south of western New Guinea.

Latest Communique

Following is the text of the communique:

Timor: Our long range fighters strafed buildings, huts and roads between Beaco and Baucan. Our medium bombers attacked the town of Toeal in the Kai islands, demolishing numerous buildings. An enemy float plane attacked Merauke without damage.

"Sananda: Our forces have seized Sananda village and point and pushed eastward along the coast towards Giruwa. Only isolated

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20—The Navy disclosed today that a total of 1,032 Japanese were killed in five days of jungle and mountain fighting as American ground troops pressed their offensive toward the main Japanese lines on embattled Guadalcanal Island.

Recent Navy communiques have told of American advances against the Japanese but no indication was given that enemy losses have been as heavy as was disclosed today.

British Eighth Army Closing In On Tripoli

Early Assault On Last Axis Port In Libya Is Now Indicated

REPORT BRITISH ONLY 30 MILES OFF

By W. P. SAPHIRE
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

CAIRO, Jan. 20.—The British Eighth Army closed in rapidly today on Tripoli, last remaining Axis port in Libya, and an early assault against the city was expected.

The British Middle East high command announced in a communique that Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's forces were continuing to press the retreating Axis units to the northwest.

(British parachutists were reported in a broadcast by the German-operated Paris radio to have landed behind units of the retreating Afrika Korps to harass Axis communications.)

The communique referring to yesterday's action in Tripolitania, said that one column along the coast was closing in on Homs, 65 miles east of Tripoli, while an inland force to the south moved in on Tarhuna, 45 miles below the port.

Within Thirty Miles

Unofficial reports said that the spearhead of the British mechanized forces had reached a point within 30 miles of Tripoli.

Numerous prisoners, guns and vehicles were captured by the British as they clashed at the heels of General Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's battered Afrika Korps.

Allied air squadrons maintained continuous bombing and strafing attacks against the fleeing Axis forces.

"Fighter-bombers and bombers maintained continuous pressure during the last 24 hours of columns moving westward from Tarhuna," the communique said.

"Monday night the airfield at Castel Benito (10 miles south of Tripoli) was heavily attacked. Large fires broke out among dispersed aircraft."

A large Axis ship was attacked by torpedo carrying aircraft west of the island of Sicily and left in a sinking condition, it was announced.

Harbor Attacked

Allied heavy bombers yesterday again heavily attacked the harbor of Tripoli and also struck into Tunisia to blast the harbor of Sousse.

There was considerable speculation on how much of a battle would

Madge Bellamy Faces Charges Of Shooting At Millionaire Lumberman

(International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 20.—Charged with attempting to shoot a millionaire lumberman she claimed had jilted her, Madge Bellamy, once called the most beautiful woman in America, was released from the San Francisco city jail today on $500 bail.

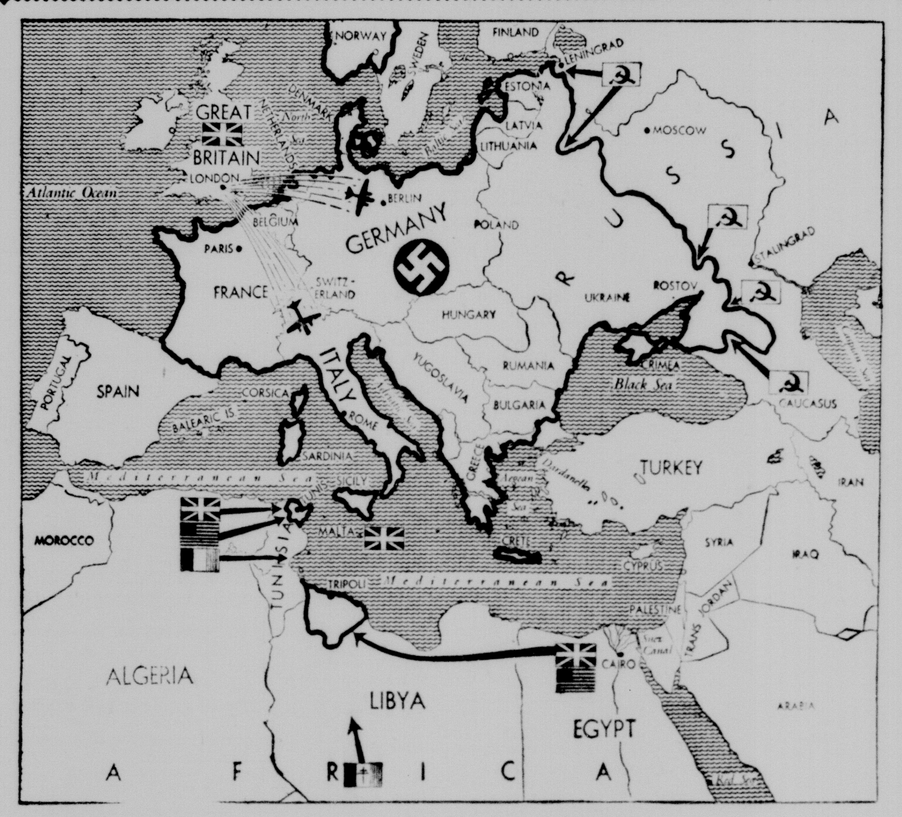
Three shots were fired in the melee which occurred at a swank club atop aristocratic nob hill, but an automobile was the only casualty.

Miss Bellamy, who thrilled stage and screen audiences a decade ago, freely admitted she had tried to shoot the lumberman. A Stanwood Murphy, president of the Pacific Lumber Company, because he had promised to marry her—and then married a model instead.

The three shots fired by Miss Bellamy failed to hit the lumberman who left the scene with what open-mouthed witnesses called "a commando crawl." Attaches of the staid old Brownstone Pacific Union club where Murphy was a member, said the lumber king "left in a hurry and said he wouldn't be back."

The shooting occurred at a parking area in front of the club and was witnesesd by three startled pedestrians. One bullet smashed through a car door, the handle of which Murphy was reaching for. Another punctured the gasoline tank of the car, witnesses said, just as Murphy "glided past on all fours." The third failed to register in the vicinity.

Iron Ring Draws Tighter About Nazi-Held Europe



How the United Nations are drawing an iron ring tighter about Hitler-dominated Europe is shown graphically by the Central Press map above. From the British Isles, the R. A. F., assisted by the United States Army Air Forces and the air forces of other allies, is stepping up raids on Germany, Italy and occupied countries. On the eastern front, the Russian armies are continuing their advances on all sectors and have lifted the sieges of Leningrad and Stalingrad. On the south shore of the Mediterranean, the once sprawling Axis territory has been reduced to little more than the segment between Tripoli and Tunis, where the German and Italian troops face the British on the east, the British, French and Americans on the west and the Fighting French on the south.

Mercer County Ration Boards Protest Rules

(International News Service)

SHARON, Pa., Jan. 20.—Unless present OPA rulings on the rationing of food and gasoline are quickly remedied, 17 members of ration boards serving Sharon, Farrell, Sharpsville and Greenville intend to resign.

The action was announced following a meeting last night at Sharon where members expressed resentment at OPA "snoopers" who stop pleasure cars. A spokesman said that some relief also must be given local gasoline dealers.

Chief complaint, apparently, is the ruling that limits Pennsylvania motorists to three gallons of gasoline weekly while car owners in nearby Ohio receive four gallons. The result, members said, is that motorists cross the state line, purchase the motor fuel in Ohio, and that "spells ruin for our local gasoline dealers."

Report From Burma Shows Greater Defense By Japanese Forces

(International News Service)

NEW DELHI, Jan. 20.—The Japanese are offering strong resistance to British Indian troops pressing southward through Burma toward the port of Akyab, the British India command revealed today in a communique.

No important change was reported in the position of the British forces which have moved to a point north of Rathedaung, 25 miles from Akyab.

British Blenheim bombers, escorted by fighters, yesterday bombed the village of Padali on Akyab Island, the communique said.

It disclosed that the Royal Air Force fliers encountered Japanese fighter planes for the first time in a fortnight. Several combats resulted. One Jap fighter was destroyed and others were damaged. The R. A. F. suffered no loss.

Later in the day the Blenheims again escorted by fighters, bombed Rathedaung. Fighter planes unleashed a machine gun attack from low-level.

"It is reported that the place was well afire," the communique said.

A SUBURB OF LONDON, Jan. 20. —I had hardly reached shelter when the air raid sirens sounded today when there was a series of terrific explosions followed by bursts of machine-gun fire.

With me were my wife and my daughter, Mrs. Howard Berry, the wife of an I.N.S. man then on duty on Fleet street in London proper.

Fearing for the safety of my seven-year-old granddaughter, Shirley Wales, I hurried to her large grade school nearby. It was a ghastly sight. The building had received a direct hit and was split nearly in two.

The roof had collapsed and fire was raging.

German Dive-Bombers Attack Part Of London In Daylight Assault

(BULLETIN)

(International News Service)

LONDON, Jan. 20.—Thirty German Focke-Wulf dive-bombers staged a terror raid on the south coast of England and the London area today, ravaged a schoolhouse in the suburbs to kill and maim scores of children in broad daylight, and fled back to Europe in disorder, leaving at least 11 of their number behind, victims of British fighter planes and anti-aircraft fire.

LONDON, Jan. 20.—For the first time in many months, German dive-bombers attempted to intimidate London in daylight today streaking in from the skies to machine-gun the streets of a London suburb.

At least six and probably eight Focke-Wulf 190's braved London's highly improved anti-aircraft defenses to drop their bombs and strew the streets with machine-gun fire.

Women and school children were feared among the casualties. The Nazis struck at lunch-hour, catching scores of youngsters in a schoolyard just as they had left the building for recess.

There was considerable non-military damage and some casualties in this reprisal for two devastating Royal Air Force raids on Berlin over the week-end.

Eye-witnesses in the suburb attacked said they counted eight of the invading planes, whose black crosses on the under-wing were clearly visible as the craft surged toward the earth at terrific speed.

Man Is Stricken At Wheel Of Auto

Fred W. Myers, Of 408½ Lyndal Street, Dies In Car On South Mill Street

Believed to have been stricken with a heart attack as he was driving his car south on South Mill street, near the Kroger store, at seven o'clock this morning, Fred W. Myers, aged 53, of 408½ Lyndal street, was found dead at the wheel of his car.

Myers, who is employed at Transfer, Pa., by the Mellon-Stuart Co., is believed to have been taken ill as he started for work and turned back to his home here. When he reached a point below East Washington and Mill streets, he evidently shut off the motor of his car and tried to bring it to a stop. The car collided with a cement post and came to a stop, the collision barely denting the fender of the car.

Karl Douglas, of 1248 State street, who made the discovery, called police. Officers, Harper, Flinner and Lynch responding. They called Dr. W. A. Womer, who pronounced Myers dead, and notified Coroner T. Frank Nugent. The coroner attributed death to a heart attack.

Mr Myers was born December 17, 1889. He had been a resident of New Castle for about 15 years and was a baker by trade.

One brother, M. A. Myers of Meadville, survives.

The body has been removed to the Ritchie funeral home, South Mill street, where funeral services will be conducted Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Unions Order Miners To Go Back To Work

Obey President's Order Or Face Expulsion From Unions Is Decree

(BULLETIN)

(International News Service)

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Jan. 20.—Striking anthracite miners today were notified by their union that they must heed President Roosevelt's order and return to work or face expulsion from the United Mine Workers of America and the loss of their jobs.

The drastic action was taken as an estimated more than 6,000 workers in the heart of the nation's hard coal fields continued their 22-day-old wildcat strikes in protest against increased union dues and in disregard of a presidential warning that government intervention would follow unless the strikes were halted by 1 p. m. tomorrow.

The anthracite mines are operated under a closed shop agreement with the United Mine Workers. Employes must belong to the union in order to retain their jobs.

The anthracite region is divided into three union districts, with the great majority of striking miners located in District 1.

It was anticipated that the union order would end the strikes, which have been in effect since December 30.

U. S. Bombers Blast Tripoli

She sits and sulks and will not start, that gas consuming love sometimes I'd like to loose her teeth, it's only twelve above.

New Battle Looms In The Solomons

Next Round In Campaign Near

Another Defeat Is Foreshadowed For Japs In Costly Battle Of Months

JAPS MAY MOVE ON GUADALCANAL

By JOSEPH A. BORS
(U. P. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—The sixth round of the bitter and costly Solomons campaign is in the making today, with American land, sea and air forces swinging punches that foreshadow another defeat for the Japanese when and if they again move in force against Guadalcanal.

Recent strengthening of American ground and air forces has bolstered the growing belief in official circles that U. S. fighting men are in better shape than ever to crush a Japanese counter-thrust.

U. S. planes and submarines have taken a terrific toll of enemy shipping and bases with the result that the Nipponese position now is believed to be much weaker than at any time since American Marines seized the southern Solomons.

Since American forces invaded Guadalcanal and seized the Japanese-built airport on that island, the United States has won four of the five major battles in the area.

The Japs won the first battle when an enemy naval force sank four United Nations cruisers off Savo Island Aug. 8-9.

American forces retaliated swiftly by winning the following series of engagements: Battle of the eastern Solomons, Aug. 24-25; battle of Cape Esperance, Oct. 11-12; battle of Santa Cruz, Oct. 25-26 and the battle of Guadalcanal, Nov. 13-15.

All these were sea and sea-air engagements which proved the superiority of American warships planes and tactics. In addition American ground and air forces have won countless smaller engagements on and around Guadalcanal.

Throughout the entire Solomons campaign, U. S. air forces have maintained a five-to-one ratio on destruction of Jap planes and a two-to-one ratio in ships lost.

Since the beginning of the Solomons campaign, 766 Japanese planes have been destroyed in the air against an estimated loss of 150 to 175 U. S. aircraft. During the same period, the Japs lost 57 vessels of all types against 28 American ships. These figures do not include damaged ships.

In addition, U. S. submarines have been taking a terrific toll of Jap ships throughout the Pacific and navy men assert that this factor has played an important part in slowing down Japan's invasion and counter-invasion efforts in the Australian and Solomons areas.

For security reasons, American submarine successes are announced periodically, although Jap ships are being torpedoed at an average of about one every two days.

The latest navy communique on U. S. submarine activities listed seven more Jap ships sunk and damaged, bringing to 170 the total of Nipponese ships destroyed or hit since the outbreak of war.

Naval spokesmen still warn the public against overconfidence, but it is no secret in Washington that officials have been breathing easier over the Solomons campaign since the November victory.

have to be fought to take Tripoli. Some observers felt that the speed with which General Field Marshal Erwin Rommel has withdrawn his Axis army in the face of the strong British forces indicated that he probably would pull out of Tripoli and send the remainder of his troops dashing toward Tunisia to link up with the German and Italian army there.

The opinion was expressed by others that Rommel will leave at least part of his Afrika Korps on the approaches to Tripoli to make a last stand in defense of the bomb and fire ruined port.

Numerous clashes occurred along the line of march as Gen. Montgomery's troops tore into Axis rear guard units covering the hurried retreat to the north and west.

The drive from the Libyan desert area into western Tripolitania's fertile hill country brought to the Axis populace their first taste of land fighting in the war.

Thousands of Italian settlers reside in foothills of the Jebel country through which the British are advancing in running gun battles with the retiring enemy troops. These residents are witnessing a full-scale retreat by Rommel's once-vaunted Afrika Korps.

the island, American Army bombers resumed their attack against Japanese shipping in an effort to cut off supplies which might be headed for the enemy troops on Guadalcanal.

In the latest attack on January 18, the Navy said that Army flying fortress bombers escorted by fighters scored two hits on a Japanese cargo ship which was left burning at anchor in the Shortland Island area, 300 miles northwest of Guadalcanal.

Two Japanese Zeroes were shot down in the action and one U. S. plane failed to return.

GERMAN DIVE-BOMBERS ATTACK PART OF LONDON

gines and the chatter of machine-gun fire sent pedestrians and shoppers to hasty cover, but the air raid alarm—the 608th of the war—was of comparatively short duration. The attack came almost simultaneously with announcement in the House of Commons by Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden that the Royal Air Force will attack Rome in blistering strength whenever military necessity dictates.

The Focke-Wulf 190's swept out of the clouds and dived down to within 100 feet of the ground before unloading their bombs. They then strafed the streets with machine-gun fire.

It was the most daring German aerial assault in daylight against the British capital in some time. The daylight attack followed two unsuccessful attempts Sunday night and early Monday morning to blast the British capital in reprisal for weekend attacks by the Royal Air Force against Berlin.

The German squadron of bombers and fighters soared over London in formation from the direction of the Thames River estuary.

They were met by a very heavy barrage from Britain's new-type anti-aircraft guns which split the formation and forced them to scatter in several directions. Puffs of exploding Ack-Ack shells streaked after the planes in hot pursuit.

Unrestricted Firing

The daylight Nazi attack was notable for its unrestricted machine-gunning. The low-flying raiders swooped through thickly-populated residential areas, hitting at least one school and machine-gunning children in the schoolyard as they were leaving for midday recess.

They then swept over an adjacent street, catching mothers as they were hurrying to school to call for their children and others as they were hustling youngsters into air raid shelters.

Reports from International News Service observers over a widespread area of the suburbs all spoke of heavy machine-gunning and considerable damage to dwelling houses.

It was feared that some persons were killed and numerous injured including school children.

Air raid precautions services were quickly on the scene and rescue parties went to work among the debris to free those trapped.

Before seeking safety in the clouds the raiders round time to machine-gun a train and a suburban station. Three points on the south coast also were bombed by the same formation.

Authorities regarded the attack as "propaganda" raid which will enable the German to boast at home of their ability to penetrate London's defenses. The attack definitely was aided by low-flying cloud conditions.

British fighter patrols and ground defenses routed about twenty German fighter-bombers over the southeast coast during the afternoon.

Spitfire and other fighters quickly roared into action as the Germans came over the channel, broke up the formation and sent it scurrying to France. At least one German was shot down in a series of fierce dog-fights.

tie-ups and rendered highways to many industrial plants temporarily impassable.

Sub-zero temperatures were the rule and in many cases were a record low for this date. Chicago's 13 below zero was its coldest Jan. 20 in the history of the weather bureau.

Six deaths in the Chicago area alone were attributed indirectly to the cold wave.

The intense cold caused the closing of most rural schools in northern Illinois and Indiana.

The coldest spot in the nation was in northern Minnesota where the mercury plummeted to 51 below.

Even in the fruit growing areas of California and the Rio Grande region freezing temperatures were reported.

SOVIET FORCES ADVANCING ON 500-MILE FRONT

armies converged on Rostov in the North Caucasus from several directions.

Drive On Rostov

The southward drive on Rostov through the middle Don was speeded with the capture of Kamensk, 85 miles above the city on the Moscow-Rostov railway.

"On the southern fronts," the high command announced at noon, "Our forces overcoming stubborn resistance, repelled counter-attacks and continued their offensive."

Soviet columns crashed across river barriers on many sections of the front in terrific assaults which the Nazis were unable to stem.

A new crossing of the Manych river in the drive toward Salsk on the Stalingrad-Krasnodar railway was announced by the high command which said that several inhabited localities were occupied in the course of the advance and two companies of enemy troops were routed.

In the northern Donetz area several other localities were seized and 600 enemy troops annihilated. Eight tanks were destroyed and numerous prisoners and quantities of war material were captured.

Voronezh Front

The same was true on the front below Voronezh where the Soviets pressed onward toward Kharkov following the capture of Valuiki and Urazova, 82 miles and 79 miles respectively from the Ukraine steel center.

Numerous additional localities were occupied in the area southwest of Voronezc.

A large force of Nazis in a garrison at Ostorogozhsk was surrounded and the Soviets continued to tighten their encircling rings.

The high command said that 800 Germans were killed on this front and 308 were taken prisoner. They captured 47 guns.

"On one sector a large number of Italians were captured."

Continuous battles were fought in the northern Caucasus as Soviet armies pressed forward to the north and the west. Here, too, a number of localities fell back into Russian hands.

Heavy Battling In North

"One Soviet unit penetrated behind the enemy lines and annihilated an infantry company," the communique said.

Several fortified points west of Stalingrad were seized by Red army shock troops after stubborn encounters.

Heavy battling continued far to the northwest around liberated Leningrad as the Russians pressed offensive drives south of Lake Ladoga. "A Soviet unti captured a strong center of enemy resistance and destroyed 12 blockhouses and 13 strong points," the high command said.

On the central front west of Moscow six inhabited localities were recaptured in the area southwest of Velikie Luki.

"Hundreds of the enemy were killed and 20 tanks and 10 guns were captured or destroyed.

"West of Rzhev an enemy infantry battalion was dispersed and five enemy planes shot down."

(A Reuter's dispatch from Moscow said a large number of German divisions were hopelessly trapped in the rear of the Red army's advance south of Voronezh, where they are caught in a pincer movement "Stalingrad model." The ring around the Germans was tightened during the night.

(The Germans were reported trapped in a corridor between the Don river and the Kamenka-Rossosh stretch of the main Voronezh-Rostov railway.)

(A British radio broadcast recorded in New York by CBS said that the Germans still have a strip on a short stretch of the Leningrad-Moscow railway.

A BBC correspondent was quoted as saying that as soon as the Nazis can be shaken off, "it will not only open up rail communication between Moscow and Leningrad, but on to Murmansk, too.") parties were arriving at that moment and had frantically started efforts to rescue children and teachers trapped under piles of debris.

SCHOOL BOMBING SCENE DESCRIBED

I first met my other daughter, Lillian, and then found Shirley safe, enabling me to plunge into the debris to help the rescue parties.

We were told that almost 200 children were having lunch inside the school while others were in the schoolyard when the building was hit.

I helped to carry out nearly thirty children, of whom many were dead and others badly injured, crying and whimpering pitifully.

We carried them tenderly to ambulances and then went back and forth, finding one child after another, sometimes dead, sometimes grievously injured but living.

Meanwhile, the police had a difficult task keeping frantic mothers from the ruined building. As the children were brought out, some of the mothers recognized their kids and snatched them from our arms to carry them home still unconscious.

There were pitiful scenes as some mothers recognized children who already were dead.

We were told numerous children and some of the staff are still unaccounted for.

I am snatching a cup of tea as I phone this to London and then I'm going back to help the rescue squads who are still working like Trojans despite the danger of falling ruins.

We have had plenty of bombings in this area in the past, but nothing so pitifully tragic as this. The whole neighborhood has turned out to do what it can to comfort the mothers and care for the children.

Making Advance Arrangements . . .

There is sound sense in making advance arrangements for funeral service.

Taking such action is no indication that one harbors morbid thoughts. Rather it assures that both the service and expense will be in accord with normal desires—not something rushed into during the stress of grief.

GOODBYE, MISS COBB

SHE was from Missouri and she had to be shown that government was not the idealistic thing that she assumed it was. Miss Margaret M. Cobb's title was assistant budget director, but in reality she was head of Missouri's budget bureau. Apparently she did not know that many politicians have been sacrificing the interests of the state to their selfishness ever since Esau sold his birthright for a mess of pottage. So when she resigned recently she expressed her disillusionment in poignant terms.

"I had visions of constructive accomplishments along the line of correcting evils and establishing a policy of economy which in my opinion must be established upon a basis of efficiency.

"Much to my regret I find that political control of state government is seemingly so firmly established that to expect one person in a minor position to accomplish anything constructive is a vain hope."

People who are given to moaning over the fact that the world changes all the time might look into this business of political control of government. Here is something as firmly entrenched as the Rock of Gilbraltar. Empires fall and doges surrender, but politicians keep their death grip on governments.

Goodbye, Miss Cobb!

REMEMBER WARSAW, ROTTERDAM!

If there are any Americans who recoil in horror before the renewed bombing of Berlin, let them remember Warsaw, Rotterdam, Coventry, London, Stalingrad.

Let them remember the long list of Nazi crimes which for nearly four years have appalled the world and set back the clock of civilization.

Let them realize that "block-buster" bombs are being rained upon Berlin by the Allies not to wreak vengeance upon the German people, but to teach the German people that war does not pay and that Hitler and his Nazi murderers must go.

For days on end in September, 1939, Hitler blasted Warsaw with all the fiendish weapons available. More than half of the city's 20,000 buildings were reduced to rubble. More than 100,000 persons were wounded.

Of the 60,000 persons killed in Warsaw by Nazi bombers and gunners, more than half were women and children. Thus Adolf Hitler conferred upon the proud capital of Poland the glories of his hellish "new order."

In the spring of 1940 the master criminal aimed his war machine at unoffending Holland and sent his dive bombers to impress Rotterdam—ancient, picturesque home of the Dutch merchant fleet—with the wonders of Nazism.

Within ten minutes the Nazi had bombed a square mile of the city, transforming busy streets and buildings to blackened ruins, killing and maiming unnumbered peaceful citizens of the Netherlands.

London, Coventry, Stalingrad—each in its own time has been Exhibit A of Nazi ruthlessness, just as Vienna, Prague, Brussels, Oslo, Athens and a tragically Hitlerized Paris bear witness to Nazi enslavement.

But what have the people of Berlin known of the home-shattering realities of war? How many of them, heretofore, have been bombed out at night? How many of them have been given, in the three and a half years of war, the faintest conception of what war has meant to Warsaw, Rotterdam, London?

One of the impelling facts of this war is that the people of Berlin and of Germany as a whole did not experience the full horror of World War I at home. If the Berliners had known World War I as the people of Brussels, of Louvain, of Amiens knew it, they might have learned that war does not pay; they might have learned to check the monster Hitler before it was too late.

This time, to safeguard the future for all the world, the German people, as apart from the brutal Nazi marauders, must be taught the elemental truth of "live and let live."

The lesson is going forward. On the Russian front Hitler's forces are being punished as never before. In North Africa America and Britain are preparing to strike at Nazi-held Europe. To Hitler's war industries in the Ruhr explosive notices of ultimate victory for the Allies are being carried.

It is time that the people of Berlin, through bomb attacks on nerve centres in the heart of Nazidom, should be made to realize the full enormity of the terror loosed upon the innocent by the megalomaniac Hitler.

Berlin's industries, railroads and utilities must be bombed and bombed again. But that isn't all. Germany must be invaded and Berlin occupied by Allied forces.

The people of Berlin are being made to pay a just price. What would Hitler do to Philadelphia—if he could?

Remember Warsaw! Remember Rotterdam!—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Taxpayers are beginning to ask the location of all first-aid stations.

When it comes to a decision on what is best to be done in Europe we would rather leave it to our leaders who are on the ground than to accept the views of politicians not on the scene who may have some axes of their own to grind.

MEXICO CITY—Vincenta Lombardo Toledano, head of the Latin American confederation of labor:

"The Germans have lost the war but still hope to divide the Americas and win the peace."

CHICAGO — Frank C. Walker, Postmaster General in assuming chairmanship of the democratic national committee:

"The democratic party believes that for the protection of our international freedom it is necessary to proclaim the God-given freedoms of humanity—it will continue to do so."

BUFFALO—Glen L. Martin, airplane builder and designer:

"The war weapons that will be delivered in 1943 will be of great importance to the American public and its enemies. The striking power, the fire power and the range will be much better."

ROCHESTER-Lord Halifax, British ambassador:

"Economic self-sufficiency has proved a mirage as great and deceptive as political isolation."

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

GRANDMA'S LOVE SPOILS BABY

"Dear Dr. Myers: My baby is 10½ months old. She eats and sleeps well. I take her to our family physican every six weeks for check-up.

"We have to live with my mother-in-law because she is partly crippled and it is impossible for her to earn any income or live alone. She loves the baby so much that she sits by her and plays with her from the time she wakes up until she goes to bed at night, and although this is very convenient at times, there are other times when I feel this is the root of the problem I have.

"My baby cries if some one is not with her constantly except when she goes to bed at night. When Grandma goes visiting I get aggravated because I have work to do and can't amuse the baby. When she is in her play pen some one has to be right in the same room. Even though she can see me and grandma in the doorway of the next room, she cries and carries on terribly.

"If she is in her buggy and I just walk back of it she cries hard. If I walk out of her sight for even two minutes, she cries. If I put her on the floor and sit in a chair and want to read the paper, she cries. If I put her by the window and some one is not with her she cries. When I have been alone I have tried letting her cry it out but she'll cry for an hour and a half before she gets tired of crying.

"If I could get the co-operation of my mother-in-law, is there a way of breaking the baby of this? I feel that the older she gets the worse she will be. Will you please give me some advice? I am sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

"One thing I learned from your column. My baby cried at night when I put her to bed from 3 months old to 8½ months. I made sure she needed nothing, was not ill or uncomfortable and then I let her cry herself to sleep. Now I have no more trouble. The baby lies quiet in her bed, talks and drops off to sleep. Not one night does she cry."

The Doctor's Advice

As I wrote this mother the best thing would be for her family to move away from the grandmother's home, provided proper care for her could be provided. The next best thing is for grandmother to change her ways toward the baby keeping away from the baby most of the time.

Provided you can manage the grandmother, making very clear to her what she must or must not do, your first step will be to have the baby gradually get along without constant attention.

Make out a schedule which you will post in easy sight. On it provide at first for periods of 10 minutes during which time neither you nor anyone else will go to her but will go wherever your work leads you. Let her cry. Then spend about three minutes amusing her, after which she will be left alone with some toys to manipulate, for another 10 minutes. Having adapted herself to this, lengthen the period to 12 or 15 minutes. Later make this period still longer. If you will follow your schedule to the letter, this baby will soon learn that you do not obey her cries, as she found when you trained her at bedtime so successfully.

My special bulletin on "Sleep Problems" may be had by writing me at 235 East 45th street, New York City, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it. Also "Suggestions to Grandparents."

Solving Parent Problems

Q. When a new baby is expected how soon should the older child know about it?

A. To the child over six or so, about as soon as the fact is obvious to the neighbors. Told too early, the child under four or five grows very impatient waiting for the new baby.

One Man's Opinion

By WALTER KIERNAN

(International News Service Staff Writer)

The new chairman of the national Democratic committee is in favor of the two-party system. And he hopes both will be democratic.

He says democracy is founded on the right of the people to debate, criticize and voice an opinion.

This was just after the democracies dropped a series of block-busters on those who have a contrary opinion on the Flynn appointment.

The Democrats found saboteurs and treasonists under every anti-Flynn bed. They are in favor of sending Flynn to Australia and critics of his appointment to Atlanta, which is also in the south.

Opposition to the Flynn appointment is "a dastardly, treasonable plot," the Democrats found.

This is a new interpretation of free speech and free opinion in a democracy and worth studying.

It would be worth studying even in Atlanta.

War does crazy things. The battlegrounds are the worst to be found on earth, and we are fighting for ground nobody would have.

The meanest disloyalty is the slow-down, which spites the boss and cripples our war effort and yet hides from public resentment.

A "scene" is dreadful only to the self-conscious. The winner is the one who doesn't give a darn what people think.

Often when things don't please us it makes them worse if we howl about them.

A SIMPLE REMEDY

"I'll never marry a man I don't love."

"But suppose a millionaire wanted to marry you?"

What would happen if the farmers went on a strike?

Many people are talking about things that will happen if we win the war. They surely will if we don't win it.

Some one asks what has become of the snipe shooter, the fellow who used to pick up cigar butts? Several years ago we used to watch a snipe shooter who had a clever way of getting his cigar butts. He used a walking stick, but touched it to the ground only when about to get a cigar butt. There was a pin or sharp nail on the end of the stick, and he could pick up a butt quicker than you can wink your eye.

ETIQUETTE OF THE DANCE

"When a boy who has just finished dancing with me says 'thank you', what should I say: 'You're welcome?'" Also, is it really poor technique for a girl to encircle a man's neck while dancing.—Uncertain.

Answer: No, never reply "you're welcome." Say: "I enjoyed it, too" or something casual, to the same effect. But do not beam upon him with a smile of gratitude, as if he had done you a favor. Although the age of chivalry is over, the psychology of the male of the species remains unchanged in this respect. He has a higher opinion of the woman who subtly implies that her companionship is a compliment to him rather than that his is to her.

Of course, your behavior toward him may very properly be tempered to his own attitude. If he is a bashful, reticent young man with an inferiority complex yet with potential attractions you can very properly encourage and even flatter him. But the average male of today is too likely to inflict upon the girls and women he contacts a swagger intended to tell them that he can take them or leave them. Our grandfathers knocked down men displaying this attitude and blackballed them from their clubs. But it is a complex for which girls and women have been to blame ever since they acquired that phase of the "new freedom" that affects relations between the sexes. Definitely do not encircle your partner's neck while dancing. It looks too possessive and so—"Oh, you really are wonderful!"

Question: Are domestics called "Miss," "Mrs." and "Mr." or should Christian names be used?—Bride.

Answer: According to modern social usage, a butler or a valet is called by his last name and all other domestics by their first names, except the housekeeper and possibly the cook of a large establishment who may properly be addressed as "Miss," or "Mrs."

In San Francisco, recently, two autoists met in an alley too narrow to pass each other. One of the autoists rose in his car and shouted to the other:

Senator Nye Trains Sights On Budget
In Charge Of Scanning Finance Plans
Aims To Dig Into Past Spending Also

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20.—As senior Republican member of the senate's appropriations committ, Gerald Nye of North Dakota is in direct personal charge of the inquiry into President Roosevelt's desired action on a financial allowance for the coming year. Anti-New Deal Democrats on the committee are as critical as Republicans, but are slightly bashful in expressing themselves adversely to White House wishes. Nye has no such hesitancy and really is that faction's chief spokesman as well as his own party's. Besides overhauling every future item in the recent presidential budget message to congress, Nye's aim is to dig into past spendings.

So far as concerns the war allowance there'll be no argument relative to the total.

In order to clear their record, former isolationists are rather more inclined than the others to be liberal. Executive requests for civilian appropriations are due, however, for the thoroughest inspection. It will be all the more so in that its expression of itself is counted on to be pretty decisive as to next election.

On a Warm Spot

The anti-New Deal Democrats are on a hot spot.

They want to put the New Deal on the Fritz and yet they hate to indorse a policy that may mean a G. O. P. victory in 1944.

Which do they fear most?

Four more years of New Dealerism or a Republican administration as a substitute for it?

They don't know.

Senator Nye's fix couldn't be improved on.

The fact is that he's better off than Carter Glass, the senatorial appropriation committee's Democratic chairman, or Kenneth McKellar, the Virginian's substitute during the latter's prolonged illness.

It's true that neither Carter nor Kenneth rates as a New Dealer. Nevertheless they're democratically responsible.

Nye's on the right side from his own political standpoint.

Besides he's emphatically from a farm state which considers New Dealerism as objectionable as pro-industrial labor at agriculture's expense.

Gerald verges on being a Republican presidential possibility if he makes the most of his opportunity as he shows signs of doing. Gerald's weakness is that he and his then wife were divorced a few years ago down east here. That isn't a serious count against a man in public life or otherwise but it signified in the Dakotas.

Nye's Version

Nye's story is that the administration aims to create an enormous fund nominally for war purposes and then to hang onto a big percentage of it to finance its socio-economic program in succeeding peace days.

The house of representatives instead of the senate has the first crack at financial legislation.

Gerald consequently hasn't got in his deadliest work yet.

It's coming, though.

Just now he's organizing a lot of sub-committees to go into the subject intensively.

As a matter of fact he isn't in a minority—reckoning Republicans and anti-New Deal Democrats collectively are with him solidly.

The World and the Mud Puddles

KEEP THE SYSTEM

That there is nothing basically wrong with the American jury system would seem to be the conclusion of a committee of Federal Judges which has reported to the Judicial Conference of the Senior Circuit Judges of the United States. In its recommendations for the improvement of Federal grand and petit jurors, it proposes no radical reform. The institution inherited from England and fashioned to our needs over the years is now a fairly satisfactory instrument of justice, and the faults lie far more with those who use that tool than with the system itself. Nothing is altogether proof against human bungling and venality.

So, in its survey, the committee of judges suggests a series of modifications which are not startling in the aggregate or one by one. Jury service by women everywhere; selection of all jurors regardless of race, color, politics, social or economic status; examination of panel members by the presiding Judge only; reduction of peremptory challenges from ten to six; note-taking by jurors who care for it; more liberal allowance for travel and subsistence; and one period of service in two years are on the list of recommendations. That seems a rather modest program and one which can be easily introduced in most places.

The Federal Courts today conform in each State to the local qualifications and exemptions prescribed there. This has meant that in twenty states women have been ineligible to serve on Federal juries. In fifteen others and the District of Columbia, they have been allowed to claim exemption. The committee advises on abandonment of such practices.

LOOKING AT LIFE

—By Erich Brandeis

Maybe cute isn't the word, but it struck me as very cute, and very typical of America.

Mrs. Wendell Willkie (she's the wife of that fellow who ran for some public office the last time Roosevelt was re-elected) was called for jury duty.

So here she was—one of the most important women in the United States, all excited about serving as a juror.

Court doesn't open until 10 o'clock but Mrs. Willkie wasn't going to take any chances on being late.

So she got up at 5 in the morning (it takes her about 15 minutes to get down to the courthouse) and she made her husband get out of bed at the same time, because nobody but he was going to take her down.

They had an early breakfast and Mrs. Willkie put on her very best appropriate clothes, and don't you ever think she wasn't right there when her name was called!

According to the judge and to several reporters, she made an excellent juror.

And by the way, she registered simply as "Mrs. Edith Willkie, housewife."

That is America for you!

That is one of those things that gives you a warm glow around your heart when you ponder on the wonderful privilege of living here.

Imagine a Mrs. Hitler or a Mrs. Mussolini sitting in a jury box, passing judgment on the cost of Mrs. Lilli Rostowsky against the Sunray Taxicab Corporation in the death of her son.

Imagine one of those, or many others like them, spending a whole day so that justice may be done to the mother of a poor Jewish boy!

Oh sure, there are class differences in this country. Oh sure, there are kickers and hoarders and snobs and fourflushers.

But the real Americans are the Mrs. Willkies and the Mr. Smiths and Jones and the millions to whom duty and good citizenship are integral parts of their lives, who know that they must give as well as get, to whom America is not just a place to live but a religion and a faith.

I like Kate Smith's song "God Bless America."

THE PASSAGE OF TIME

The month of January goes,
Brief February waits to follow,
'Tis winter and the drifted snows
Lie deep in every nook and hollow.

The young think springtime far away,
The old are wise and know much better.
"'Twill swifter come," they sadly say,
"Than will some long awaited letter."

April upon the heels of March
Treads next to green the earth with showering
And bring to leaf the elm and larch
And set the tulip buds to flowering.

"So long the time till school is out!"
Wail children, whether dull or clever.
But graybeards know beyond a doubt
The months fly faster by than ever.

Now though 'tis January still
And wildly blizzards blow upon us
We know it won't be long until Another Christmas season's on us.

Annual Gathering Takes Place Tuesday At Second U. P. Church

DR. G. A. FALLON MAKES ADDRESS

Large representative group of Lawrence county temperance forces gathered at the Second U. P. church on County Line street, for the annual W. C. T. U. Loyalty luncheon Tuesday afternoon.

The address of the afternoon was made by Dr. George A. Fallon, of Mt. Lebanon Methodist church, Pittsburgh. Dr. Fallon was introduced by Mrs. W. G. Wilkins, county president.

Invocation was delivered by Rev. Sidney K. Bliss, of the Central Christian church, after which the assemblage sang the "New Crusade".

Mrs. Dorothy Gormley Smith, soloist, sang "My Redeemer and My Lord" Her encore number was "The Lord's Prayer" Mrs. Jay L. Reed was her accompanist.

Urges Protest

Mrs. Wilkins then announced that the International Board of Christian Education has voted to discontinue temperance lessons beginning with 1945 and urged all members to mail a letter of protest to the secretary of the board, Dr. Mary Alice Jones, at 203 North Wabash avenue, Chicago, now, as the board will meet in April.

Dr. Fallon spoke forcefully and dynamically on the subject, "We Have the Glory" and held the close attention of his audience.

Asking the question, "Why Are We Against the Liquor Traffic—Because it Makes a Profit?", the answer was, "No, but because it destroys men and stops a man from growing as he ought to grow." Deploring the fact that Christians have built bars in their homes, Dr. Fallon stated that "this thing has worked itself into the church and by the grace of God, we must work it out."

Cites Camp Conditions

Following Dr. Fallon's address, Miss Linnie J. Long, corresponding secretary of the Beaver Falls union, drew attention to conditions in army camps and said that she felt more could be done to promote the moral welfare of the boys.

Rev. J. Calvin Rose closed the meeting with prayer.

Among the special guests who attended were Mrs. Dorothy Gormley Smith, Mrs. Jay L. Reed, Mrs. J. A. G. Gormley, Mrs. David Nesbitt, Dr. and Mrs. D. L. Ferguson, Rev. and Mrs. W. A. Thornton, Dr. Burr R. McKnight, Rev. J. Calvin Rose., Rev. Sidney K. Bliss, Jack Dunlap, and Rev. John Caughey of Wurtemburg.

Luncheon was served by the ladies of the Second U. P. church.

Quick Action Helps Prevent Auto Accidents

Chief Clerk Charles O'Brien of the city streets department today reported that Commissioner Carmi Glover and a force of street workers Tuesday possibly prevented some auto accidents because they beat a fast descending thermometer and a high wind to the hill sections of the city.

"As soon as the thermometer began dropping and the wind grew heavier Mr. Glover dispatched trucks with ashes to all the hills and vicinities of schools. Ashes were placed on the hills near the schools and at intersections," O'Brien stated.

"How do you keep ashes warm?" he was asked.

"Every day a certain number of loads are placed inside the street department building here (Grove street). They are screened and when the ashes are put into spreaders it saves the time of shoveling," he reported.

Shenango Presbytery Addressed By Dr. W. M. Cleaveland, Synodical Executive

MEETING IS HELD IN LOCAL CHURCH

Dr. W. M. Cleaveland of Harrisburg, Synodical Executive of Pennsylvania, was a speaker at the meeting of Shenango Presbytery held Tuesday in the First Presbyterian church of this city.

Dr. Cleaveland addressed the meeting in the afternoon in connection with the plans for the annual every-member canvas. Rev. Thomas G. Berger, pastor of Slippery Rock church, Ellwood City, is chairman of this work and presided during this part of the meeting.

The installation of Rev. Paul Ferenczy at Farrell Magyar church, which took place on September 27, 1942, was reported and Rev. J. Greer Bingham of Wampum was appointed moderator of the session of the vacant Moravia church as its former moderator, Rev. John Earl Myers, Jr., of Mahoningtown, is now an Army chaplain.

Presbytery decided to contribute an amount as large as three per cent of all church contributions for the War Time Service Commission of the Presbyterian Church. This agency serves communities established for war work plants in the United States, also, bears additional expense in connection with foreign mission work that is brought about by the war, and the assistance of missionaries from the Protestant churches of Europe in mission lands around the world.

It was also decided to increase the budget for missions and benevolence of the churches of Presbytery 20 per cent over the amount of last year. Elder Charles B. Marshall of First church, Sharon, recommended that the assessment for ecclesiastical expenses for the coming year be fifteen and a half cents per member as in other years.

Dr. S. A. Kirkbride, chairman of the committee on necrology, conducted a brief memorial service for the following elders who died recently: J. P. Hoffman of Pulaski, B. E. Fenstermaker of Sharon First church, Dallas Houk of Bell Memorial church, Ellwood City, J. Charles Leslie of Moravia, Perry Griffin of Bessemer and B. R. Thompson of Unity church, Mercer.

Announcement was made that the next meeting of Shenango Presbytery will be held in Clarksville Presbyterian church on the third Tuesday of April. At that meeting, a new moderator will be elected and the annual church reports will be given.

Gene Krupa Is Held Under Bail

(International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 20.—Gene Krupa, the drum-beating band leader and idol of jitterbugs and zoot suiters, today was released from custody under $1,000 bail after his arrest on charges of contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

Krupa protested he was innocent of the charge—that of permitting his 17-year-old valet to transport narcotics.

"I don't know anything about all this," he protested as he was arrested when he stepped from the stage of a San Francisco theater where he had just concluded an appearance.

Deputy District Attorney Ed. Leonard declared the valet, John Pateakos, was being held as a material witness in the juvenile detention home. Leonard said the youth was arrested by Federal agents while in the possession of marihuana cigarets. The 17-year-old youth told arresting officers that Krupa had sent him to the latter's hotel room to get the narcotic cigarets, the district attorney said. The youth added that he had been told to take the marihuana to the theater for Krupa.

German Command Admits Plight Of Troops In Russia

Revealing Broadcast First From Germany To Concede Fall Of Velikie Luki

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—The plight of German forces on the Russian front is due to the lack of troops and war material, Lieut. Gen. Dietmar, spokesman for the German high command, admitted in a broadcast, according to the British radio.

The British broadcast, recorded by CBS, quoted Dietmar as saying:

"Everywhere on the eastern front an equality in number and equipment can be achieved only locally. Those fronts which for the time being are of lesser importance have to be ruthlessly weakened. This entails considerable dangers."

Dietmar was said to have admitted that the Germans have been unable to hold such key points as Velikie Luki, Millerovo, Schluesselburg and Kamensk and that the Stalingrad army has been greatly diminished in strength.

(Editor's Note: This was the first official admission by the Germans that these strongholds have fallen to the Russians. Previously the high command has insisted, despite Russian claims, that Velikie Luki still was in the hands of the Nazis.)

Gambler Confesses To Murder Of Four

Shoots Men In Front Of Arkansas Cafe For "Bothering His Wife"

(International News Service)

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Jan. 20—Tuck Bishop, 45, reputed professional gambler, confessed on Tuesday, State police said, to the murder of four men in front of a Springdale, Ark., cafe Sunday night because they were "bothering my wife."

The gambler said that the five men he shot at persisted in talking to his wife in the cafe.

"I couldn't stand that," Bishop was quoted as saying.

Prosecutor Jeff Duty said Bishop walked out of the cafe and opened fire on five men. Those killed were Lyle Carter, 30, Springdale filling station operator; Paul Phillips, 36, Springdale farmer; Harold Bell, 19, Lowell, Ark., farmer and Lyle Graham, also of Lowell. The prosecutor said Ed. Hendrick, 23, of Lowell, escaped Bishop's bullets by diving under a nearby automobile.

Bishop was held under first degree murder charges.

Your Federal Income Tax

NO. 15
EARNED INCOME CREDIT

In arriving at the amount of tax due on the txable income of individuals, a credit, known as "earned income credit" is allowed against income in computing the "normal tax." The amount of earned income credit is entered on line 25 of the return Form 1040, and the computation of the earned income credit is shown in Schedule E of the return form. The manner of computation is set forth in Instruction 25 accompanying the form. The earned income credit is defined by law as 10 per cent of the earned net income, but not in excess of 10 per cent of the net income; but this definition is subject to certain qualifications. There are three major qualifications.

First, if the taxpayer's net income (that is, the amount shown on line 19 of the return) is not greater than $3,000, then the earned income credit is taken as 10 per cent of the net income; that is, the entire net income is considered as earned net income.

Second, if the taxpayer's net income exceeds $3,000, then the earned income credit is taken as 10 per cent of the net income or the earned net income, which ever is the smaller, but in any case at least $300.

Earned net income is defined as the "earned income" less the "earned income deduction." "Earned income" is earnings from employment, that is, earnings from wages, salaries, professional fees, tips, bonuses, and the like. The "earned income deductions" are the ordinary and necessary expenses incurred in connection with such employment. (The amount of such expenses must be explained by an itemized statement.)

Ordinarily, the earned net income is the amount carried into the return on line 1 of Form 1040. If, however, the taxpayer is in business for himself and is reporting most of his income on Schedule H—Profit (or Loss from Business or Pr fession —a maximum of 20 per cent of his share of the net profits of such trade or business may be considered as earned income in arriving at the amount of earned net income.

Third, the maximum earned income credit which any taxpayer may take is $1,400. This maxirium would occur when both the net income and the earned net income were $14,000 or more.

For persons filing a Simplified Return, it is not necessary to compute the earned income credit, as this has been consolidated into the computation of tax shown in the table on the back of the return form. It is necessary only to refer to this table to arrive at the correct amount of tax due. Any individual whose total income for the year is not in excess of $3,000 and was wholly from salary, wages, or other compensation for personal service dividends, interest, or annuities, may use a Simplified Return (Form 1040A).

2833 REINSTATEMENTS

Final figures released in the office of Permanent Registration show that 2833 voters have reinstated themselves after being notified their voting privilege would be cancelled for not voting in the two years last past. This is approximately 33 per cent of the 8455 notices sent out.

The number of cancellations was the largest since permanent registration began but the number of reinstatements is largest also, both as to number and percentage. Of the 2833 reinstated, 125 were for men in service. The voters who did not return the reinstatement card now find themselves without a vote until such time as they register again.

AROUND CITY HALL

Twenty-seven years ago Sunday night John Moore and John Young subscribed to a policeman's oath. They were appointed during the administration of the late Mayor A. D. Newell. Since then they have filled every role in the department and have earned an enviable reputation as law nforcement agents.

Both are former tin workers. When Moore donned a uniform of blue he was assigned to ride a motorcycle and Young went on foot patrol. Later Moore deserted the motorcycle. They have worked every 'beat' in the city and no officer knows more people more intimately than they.

In those days the police had a horse-drawn patrol. There was no Gamewell system, police broadcasting system nor bureau of identification here. Later came the motorized patrol but for years they had to depend upon a mental picture or a photograph to identify persons.

After W. G. McMullen was named chief of the fingerprint and photographic bureau during the police chiefship of John F. Haven he and later, Ray Showalter, who succeeded McMullen in that role, taught others how to take fingerprints and photos—and naturally, both Moore and Young were among these.

With D. J. Thomas as third detective working under the supervision of Chief of Detectives Ralph A. Criswell, the city has a live bureau. It takes only a few moments to identify any person if his "prints" are on file. It is a squad that few law-breakers, regardless whom they are, want to face.

Governor Martin Recalls Many Of His Nominations

By JOHN PAGET
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

HARRISBURG, Jan. 20.—Confirmation of more than a score of state boards and commissions named by former Gov. Arthur H. James was sidetracked in the senate today after Gov. Edward Martin recalled the appointments from consideration as one of the first acts of his administration.

Simultaneously, the senate tabled confirmation of two cabinet members appointed by the governor because of sudden opposition from the Democratic minority. The 32-member Republican delegation in the upper house lacks two votes needed to approve executive nominations.

On a motion by Sen. Weldon B. Heyburn (R) Delaware, majority floor leader, the senate deferred the confirmation of John U. Shroyer, Shamokin dress manufacturer, as secretary of highways, and Samuel Y. Ramage, Ill., Oil City hotel man, as secretary of public assistance.

Want To Study Appointments

Sen. Bernard B. McGinnis (D) Allegheny, the minority floor leader, indicated his colleagues desired more time in which to study the records of the two men, particularly of Ramage, Venango county Republican leader.

Shortly after he was inaugurated as the Commonwealth's 35th chief executive in the first indoor ceremony since 1887, when Governor Beaver was sworn into office, Governor Martin asked the senate to return the appointments of his predecessor, excepting those of justices of the peace, notaries public, aldermen, and commissioners of deeds.

Martin assumed his duties as chief executive after a simple ceremony held indoors because of threatening weather. He was sworn into officer by State Supreme Court Justice George W. Maxey in the forum of the Educational Building near the spot where an $1800 inaugural stand had been erected. Flanking the new governor as he delivered his inaugural address were retiring Gov. Arthur H. James and former Gov. John K. Tener, now 79 years of age, who held the reins of state government from 1911 to 1915, and a score of other prominent Republicans.

Political Developments Looming In North Africa

By KINGSBURY SMITH
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20—Important political developments today are believed to be shaping up in North Africa.

These developments are expected to reach a climax shortly with a clarification of some of the events that have been going on there.

Meanwhile, it was learned authoritatively that the appointment of Marcel Peyrouton, former Vichy Minister of the Interior, as Governor General of Algeria was accepted by the American authorities as a military necessity.

The appointment was made by Gen. Henri Giraud, high commissioner of French Africa, and was approved by Lieut. Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, American commander of the Allied forces in French North Africa.

Recognizes Rights

It is presumed in Washington that Gen. Eisenhower recognizes French North Africa as an ally entitled to the rights of sovereignty. It is understood that his attitude in this respect is supported by both the war and state departments.

Gen. Eisenhower is believed to be reluctant to interfere with French civilian affairs in North Africa unless military necessity warrants such action.

It is realized in official circles in Washington that Peyroutons appointment is likely to raise an outcry in some quarters, especially among the fighting French.

Gen. Charles De Gaulle's followers are bitterly opposed to Peyrouton, who, as Vichy Minister of the Interior, was responsible for the arrest of fighting French adherents in France.

Nevertheless, the American and French military authorities are understood to have insisted on his appointment. He is noted for his administrative ability, and Gen. Giraud is understood to feel that he may be able to put things in order in Algeria.

Rome Not Safe From Bombing

(International News Service)

LONDON, Jan. 20.—Britain will not hesitate to bombard Rome from the air if such an attack will aid the Allies in winning the war Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden declared today.

"We shall not hesitate to bomb Rome to the best of our ability and as heavily as possible if the course of the war renders such action convenient and helpful," Eden told the House of Commons.

Frequently reports have been circulated that there existed a tacit agreement against bombing the Italian capital because the Vatican is located there.

It also was rumored recently that Premier Mussolini had ordered the removal of all war industry from Rome in order that it might be declared an open city.

Eden's statement put to rest all speculation on the reported agreement against bombing the Italian capital as definitely as the Royal Air Force last weekend disproved rumors that a truce had been called in air assaults against Berlin.

USING HORSE POWER HAS ITS DRAWBACKS

(International News Service)

ALTOONA, Pa., Jan. 20—Recent foggy weather brought the past and present together with a bang.

Police reported the collision of an automobile and a horsedrawn wagon near Bellwood intersection in which the present got the best of the deal. The "past" in the form of the wagon was demolished and the horse was badly cut about the head.

The driver of the automobile suggested that if farmers turned to horse power to save their precious tires and gasoline they might try putting fog lights on the vehicles.

Open Hearings On Flynn Appointment

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20. — The senate foreign relations committee today opens a hearing on nomination of Edward J. Flynn to be minister to Australia which is expected to provoke the most bitter clash over a presidential appointment in recent years.

Health Talks

By DR. W. A. WOMER
City Health Superintendent

NERVES

It seems as though a good many of our people are what we call nervous. The women appear to be affected more than the men.

They are jittery and jumpy. They do not sleep very well. They are irritable. They are hard to get along with. They have aches and pains and headaches. They fly off the handle and raise cain generally.

The men are a hard problem to manage anyhow but when a woman is nervous she has a harder time than usual.

Now what can we do about it? In the first place do not take medicine except on the doctor's order. All of these so-called sedatives are bad for you and mostly habit-forming.

If you are really sick, go see your doctor. He will tell you whether you have anything the matter or not.

Begin on a regular routine as much as you can. Keep regular hours of sleep and work, if the baby can be persuaded to help with the sleep part. Don't take yourself too seriously. Laugh a little. Be satisfied with a day's work but be sure to work. Forget about those laxatives. People spend more money for vitamins and then wash them all away with mineral oil. Say your prayers and say them slow. Forget about your self and think about something worth while. A bottle or pill is a poor substitute for backbone.

MEETING DATE CHANGED

Instead of meeting today, the Wednesday Dinner Club will meet at a downtown tea room, Thursday afternoon, January 21, at one o'clock.

Tunisia, though approximately the same size as New York state, has more than 750 miles of coastline.

Eleven Pilots Now 'Aces' In South Pacific

Pennsylvania Captain Ranks Third, With Eight Jap Planes To His Credit

By PAT ROBINSON
(U. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA, Jan. 20.—Eleven American pursuit pilots have earned the rank of "ace" in the furious fighting in the southwest Pacific, the tallyboard of air combat showed today.

In third place is Capt. Thomas Lynch, of Catasauqua, Pa., with a record of eight Japanese planes downed. His squadron has a total of 39 to its credit.

Lieut. Col. "Buzz" Wagner, who was killed in a routine flight in the United States when his plane crashed shortly after taking off from a Florida training field, was listed as having shot down eight enemy planes when he left New Guinea for the United States.

The aces have bagged a total of 80 enemy planes.

The requirement to earn rating as an "ace" are a minimum of five enemy planes.

Credited officially with three Jap planes was:

Capt. Joseph Kruzel, of Wilkes Barre, Pa.

In judging the fighting effectiveness of the various pilots, it was pointed out, allowances must be made for the fact that some are veterans in the southwest Pacific, while others have only recently arrived in this war theater.

As the Allied fighter squadrons are usually heavily outnumbered, success often depends on their getting more than one of the enemy during the dogfights.

In the list of American pilots who have shot down two or more enemy Zero fighters in a single battle was: Capt. Walter Coss, of New Frighton, Pa.

The following shot down two or more bombers in one engagement: Capt. Kiser, Capt. William Sheppard, of Pittsburgh, and Lieut. Edward Miller, of Upper Darby, Pa.

What it amounts to is that the taxables who are broke will go to to jail this year for not saving it when they had it last year.

Important Ration Book Dates Given

Perhaps when the "point system" of rationing goes into effect the deadline dates may not be so confusing. If store conversation is any indication, the hardest things is keeping them in mind. Coffee runs out one day, sugar another, gas on a third and tire inspection on a fourth. Housewives seem to wish rationing could be done by months, which would allow easier reckoning.

Here are the important dates for the next few weeks. It might be a good idea to cut this out and keep it handy for the family.

Jan. 21. Last day for use of No. 3 coupon in a gasoline A books.

Jan. 22. First day for use of No. 4 coupons in gasoline A books.

Jan. 27. Ration banking becomes effective. (This is for dealers only.)

Jan. 31. Last day for use of coupon 10 in War Ration book 1 for three pounds of sugar.

Feb. 1. First day for use of coupon 11 in War Ration book 1 for sugar.

Feb. 6. Last day for use of coupon 28 in War Ration book 1 for one pound of coffee.

Feb. 8. First day for use of coupon 25 in War Ration book 1 for coffee. If conditions are favorable, coffee may come sooner. Ask the grocer.

Feb. 27. Last day for tire inspection for holders of B and C gasoline books.

March 30. Last day for tire inspection, holders of A gasoline books. (Don't wait till the last minute. Get it done early and easy.)

'Canes Lose, 36-22; New Wilmington Wins

Loss Quells Locals' Section 3 Title Hopes

Ambridge Gains Sixth Straight Defeat Charged Against New Castle

ZUBKOWSKY STARS FOR LOSING QUINT

'Tis safe to report today that New Castle high's 1941-42 Section III basketball champions will not represent the loop in the coming WPIAL tournament.

Coming up to their "do or die" game, last night on George Washington junior high floor, the 'Canes took it on the chin for the sixth consecutive time, losing a 36-22 decision to a scrappy Ambridge quint.

While the locals were sent reeling to the loop's ratskeller, almost unusual haunt for a Bridenbaugh-tutored team, the Bridges elevated themselves to the top with three successive league conquests.

Sixth Straight Loss

The setback marked the third Section III loss for the red and black geared flippers and the seventh in eight skirmishes. With only seven more sectional struggles dotting the card, the local chance is equivalent to that of a sweepstakes winner.

With less than two minutes gone, the valley passers gave an inkling of what to expect by amassing a 5-0 edge. Zubkowsky's one-handed bull's-eye slashed the margin to three points, the closest the 'Canes came to the veteran-studded Bridgers. At the end of the first, N. C. trailed 4-11.

Burris opened the second with a deuce from under but Shemyla gambled with a deep shot which connected. Zubkowsky's foul left the locals behind, 7-13, but Laniewski canned under.

Zubkowsky renewed the locals' hopes with a pair of free tosses. Ulinski potted a gift shot. Zubkowsky's long twin-player then reduced the deficit, 11-16. Spinosi rifled from long distance and scored. Ambridge lead 11-19 at halftime.

As the third period whistle blew, Ambridge added three successive double plyers in four shots, quashed any further hopes the locals may have entertained. New Castle was in second place by a 25-15 margin as the third ended.

Other than Coach Moe Rubenstein's incessant sideline criticism of the officiating, which caused the local cheering section to blare out it's most lusty raspberries and halted play twice the fourth was wild and devoid of thrills.

Zubkowsky Stars

Zubkowsky, who departed via the four personal mode, played his top game of the season. Besides rattling the rings for eight points, he got in the Bridgers' hair throughout.

Harry Ulinski and Tom Osso highlighted the loop leaders' attack with 18 points.

New Castle, which missed enough under the bucket shots to win a couple of games, shot 62 times, hitting seven for an average of slightly better than 11 per cent. Ambridge pocketed 14 out of 56 for an even 25 per cent.

Featherweight King Easily Wins 10-Round Bout From Bill Speary

(International News Service)

HARTFORD, Conn., Jan. 20—Willie Pep, of Hartford, world featherweight champion, today boasted a record of fifty eight straight victories following his easy win last night in a ten-round non-title bout with Bill Speary of Nanticoke, Pa.

Pep started slowly but battered Speary unmercifully to win every round of the bout. Speary never had a chance in the one-sided encounter and emerged from the fray with his left eye cut and his lips swollen.

The Victor weighed 129½ while Speary tipped the scales at 130 in the over-the-weight bout.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS LAND

Pennsylvania Angler, January issue, is off the press and it is decidedly interesting. It contains some articles which no doubt will be eagerly devoured by anglers. In it is an article by Dick Fortney "Any Old Hook Won't Do" worth reading. There also are diagrams of the various hooks for various kind of fish. Edson Leonard writes of American fly types and their construction and they too are shown. "Plugging away" by Charles K. Fox and other articles provide good reading for fishermen and lest one forget "Rosy" White remarked last Friday, "it is only 90 days until trout season." Writing of trout, not so many will be taken this season because of the pleasure driving ban. However, those who reside in close proximity to the trout streams will have an opportunity that people in the city will lack unless they pedal on their own power to the trout streams.

There's no sentiment in baseball and because two players apparently have reached the end of their playing days the Boston Braves has released Johnny Cooney and Paul Waner. Cooney rejected an offer to lead a Double-A club and like "Big Poison" yet hopes to catch on with a major team.

Women To Train Future Racers?

(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 20.—Since time immemeorial, women have shared with men the love of a good horse and the thrill of the turf, but it has been the male who shouldered the responsibility of training the sleek thoroughbreds for the race.

But under the impact of a world-wide war, all this is being changed and in the opinion of Miss Josephine Patterson, "Mom," to hundreds of stable boys, trainers and regular followers of the track, it will not be long before women trainers are the rule rather than the exception.

"If the war lasts a year longer, women will be doing the most of the horse training," she declared following her application as a trainer at Tropical Park.

Owns Slap Jack

Miss Patterson, a native of Plant City, Fla., is no novice around the tracks. She is the owner of Slap Jack.

She didn't do well at Narragansett, but after that meet she acquired Slap Jack and decided to do his training personally.

FANNING RECORD

Strikeout performances by American league hurlers in 1942 were under those of 1941, when the top fanning job was turned in by little Tommy Bridges of Detroit as he whiffed 14 Philadelphia batters in 7 and 2-3 innings on June 10. This past season Oscar Judd, Boston; Buck Newsom, then of Washington; Hal Newhouser of Detroit and Hank Borowy of New York each turned in 10 strikeouts in one game.

Who'll Win Derby? Answer: Count Fleet, That's Mahon's Tip

By JACK MAHON
(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—The day was as dark as a certain dictator's future when out of an envelope we plucked a sports release that filled the room with the fresh, clean smell of blue grass, changed the clacking rhythm of the typewriter keys to the thumping thud of horses' hooves and carried us, in reverie, back to Louisville for another running of the famed Kentucky Derby.

Each year about this time the "man" comes around. His name is Frank Menke and his job is to convince the waiting world that the impending derby will be even greater than the many great races that have already filled its colorful history.

Maybe Col. Matt Winn, aged director of the race, has rationed Brother Menke this year. Frank's typewriter is still clicking however, and it was the first of his releases that fell out on our desk today and prompted us to pass along a little information we know you will all appreciate.

It is simply this: Count Fleet will win the 1943 derby.

There it is, brother. We have never been in the habit of stringing along with winter book favorites in the Blue Grass Classic and the Count seems a cinch to wind up the choice when, and if, any of those generous gentlemen begin accepting wagers this year.

This time, however, we are convinced the favorite is a cinch. We saw every good two year old in the country last season and the Count was by far the best.

The son of Reigh Count is an imposing-looking fellow who apparently has wintered well for Trainer Don Cameron has him en route to Oaklawn, Hot Springs for the first trials of his three year old career.

The Count won 10 races, was second four times and third once in 15 starts as a juvenile, taking down $75,245 in purses and streaking a mile in 1:35 4-5 seconds at Belmont Park to establish a new world's record for two year olds. Its memory of the way he did it that's got us so excited and offering you this strictly confidential tip.

Watch and see.

Dates For Race Meet Are Asked By Narragansett

NEW YORK, Jan. 20 — Basing his action upon the hope that "the present gasoline restrictions may be modified before the time comes for the opening of the spring meeting," Judge James E. Dooley, president of the Narragansett Racing Association, applied for racing dates in 1943.

The application, filed with John E. Martin, racing administrator of Rhode Island, requests dates for two meetings; April 10 to May 8, and August 9, to September 25, covering 67 days of racing.

Fordham Flash Says Pirates' 1943 Prospects Could Be Worse

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 20—Frankie Frisch, the "Fordham Flash," planned to "talk things over" with Pirate President Bill Benswanger today while admitting that the Bucos' prospects for 1943 "could be worse."

The Pirates' manager arrived here late yesterday from his home in New Rochelle, N. Y., to iron out the numerous details before taking his squad to Muncie, Ind., for spring conditioning.

"Right now," Frisch said, "it looks as if we will not have more than 31 players on our active list, but the Pirates will not be worse off than many rival clubs, for all of them have given up numerous young men to serve with the Army and Navy.

SPORTS WORLD RAMBLINGS

Notes off the cuff:-

Uncle Sam's long but gentle arm continues to extend its reach into the local sports pot. The latest batch discloses a familiar name—"Lindy" Lauro, Mahoningtown footballer, baseballer, basketballer, softballer, swimmer, billiard player and a smooth dancer.

Among the most handsome young men, Lauro, who can part a guy's hair with his pigskin heaves, has departed to join the army air corps. A student at Alabama, "Lindy" transferred to Pitt last fall. He enlisted in the air corps and quit school recently when he learned that he was slated to join the active duty parade . . .

Will Lambiase, a 20-year-old right handed pitcher headed for stardom, will fling for Uncle Sam starting Friday. A number of the Keystone A. C., Will turned in an "O-O-O" game last season. . . Jimmy Cherol, south side athlete, is stationed at Manhattan Beach.

Sergeant James A. Final, who removed his U. S. Marine gear a couple of times to appear in amateur fistic brawls here during his one year stay, leaves the city Wednesday, headed for New River, North Carolina.

Unconditional release of Johnny Cooney and Paul Waner, yesterday by the Braves, removed two performers whose combined age is 80. Cooney is 41 and Paul 39 . . . Cincinnati was shut out 17 times last season, 153 goose-eggs.

Connie Mack says he's hunting for pitchers. Who in the majors isn't? . . . If Leo Durocher joins the army ranks, "Bill" Terry is among the likely successors . . . Eastman's "no training in the south Euro" but the writers who tagged along harder than anybody. Six weeks of fun and play shot.

Checked the encyclopedia for additional info on St arthmore (Pa.) college, the unlucky site where the Phils will pitch their spring training camp. "Co educational institution of higher learning," read the big book. Maybe the Phils' management got wind of a kindgarten class, eh?

FAIR OR FOUL

By LAWTON CARVER
INS Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—There is a feeling among our better baseball minds, if any, that baseball is going to be artistically inferior next season because so many standout stars have been lost to the services, but I doubt that the change will be apparent to any save the most discerning of experts. That lets me out, along with you and about 99¾ of every 100 fans, all of whom will have their fun with the firm conviction that everything is all right. We won't know the difference, once we get used to the absence of Terry Moore, Joe DiMaggio, Phil Rizzuto, Johnny Pesky and the others of that elite baseball breed.

And everything will be all right, as a matter of fact, whether the season lasts only until July or goes all the way to the finish, for the game won't be any the less thrilling and may be even more interesting because of the chance that the leagues will be better balanced. All have been hard hit. The standout clubs have lost the standout stars who made them click. The only hope they can hang on to enough of the rest to keep going.

Won't Mind Change

Any change in the quality of the game will be scarcely noticeable day-by-day. On nine plays out of 10 the DiMaggios and the Moores look much like any other ball player, and it is the extreme occasional chance that makes them great afield. Yet their successors will put as much thrill into it for most of us. A few observers will try to spoil it all no doubt by remembering aloud after a heroic effort by Center Fielder Joe Blow, late of the Sally League, that DiMaggio used to go all the way to the flag pole and catch them in his hip pockets. However, there is an answer to that.

Old Joe certainly did—but how often did he get a chance like that?

And the hitting of the standouts is not calculated to be such a noticeable loss either, for the less able hitters should be able to do better than usual now that they will be confronting less able pitchers. Moreover, it is the hitting over a season that counts. The best of them might go to bat for a week without even getting a loud foul.

If they had lost only pitchers, or only hitters, the majors really could be prepared for some fireworks, for the defensive or offensive would have been hard-hit, while as it is the losses have been evenly spread among all positions and all ball clubs. I don't think the difference in baseball next season and the past will cause anybody to stay away from the parks—until they run entirely out of players, which is a possibility.

Expects Close Races

There is a possibility, too, that the tougher teams have been so softened up that the American League race will be a race, unlike anything we've seen except for one or two seasons in the last 10, and the National League race will be a knockdown-dragout for a half dozen clubs instead of just two.

The point I seem to be trying to make is that baseball in any given clasification—in this case the major leagues—is a little different from most sports, especially boxing for instance.

There is an immediately obvious difference between a great fighter and a poor one. When you get away from greatness there is a sharp decline to the kind we have around now, most of them strictly third-rates with their lack of ability noticeable in everything they do. Put two of them together and you get twice as much of the same.

I think the baseball fans only worry should be how much baseball he will be able to see next season—and not how good it will be.

More than 200 major leaguers are in the services already and if about half that many more go it won't be a question of quality at all. There simply won't be any more baseball.

Spatter Montreal, 5-2, Tuesday Night; Top Circuit With 40 Points

(International News Service)

The Boston Bruins took a commanding lead in the national league hockey race today as a result of their 5-2 victory at Boston last night over the Montreal Canadiens.

Flash Hollett, sparked the Bruins throughout, scoring the first goal unassisted with a 30-foot back hander into the net.

Tomorrow night's schedule calls for all teams in the league to be in action. Boston will meet the second place Detroit Red Wings; New York Rangers battle the Maple Leafs at Toronto and the Chicago Black Hawks entertain the Canadiens.

Boston now leads the league with 40 points with Detroit second in the standings with 33.

Cathcart-Borowicz Lead "Greyhounds" To 10th Successive Conquest

CRAINE HITS 21 AGAINST BROOKERS

A pair of scholastic basketball giants—New Wilmington and Wampum—are ensconced in the tumultuous Section 21 first place pew today.

Listed as the underdog, the college towners carved a trench in Bessemer's title dream train by convincingly winning a 38-30 decision, last night at Bessemer. The flashy "Greyhounds" ran their string to 10 in a row.

While these behemoths were blasting away, Wampum's "Indians" exploded all over East Brook high as they spurted in the last half to rout East Brook, 56-31.

So, New Wilmington's league record shows five victims while the Wampumites have scalped four rivals.

Cathcart-Borowicz Star

Two classy hoopsters, Kenny "Skyscraper" Cathcart and Norm Borowicz settled the Bessemer issue by canning 28 of the 38 Wilmington total. Cathcart ran his season total to 180 with 13 points. Borowicz, clicking efficiently, supported his taller mate with 10.

SECTION 21

Games Friday

Shenango at Union.
Bessemer at Wampum.
E. Brook at Mt. Jackson.

The Eaglesonmen stepped ahead 8-6 in the first but the "Cementers" rallied to walk off with a 13-10 halftime edge. In the third, New Wilmington hit a dozen points compared to half that number for Bessemer. Tasota's loss to the host club, near the close of the third, was a severe jolt.

New Wilmington, shooting 49 times during the night, connected 16 times. Bessemer, handicapped by lack of height under the hoops, rifled only 31 shots.

This marked Bessemer's second setback in 11 tiffs and sent the "Cementers" down two notches in the standing.

In the preliminary, Bessemer's seconds ripped Mt. Jackson's reserves, 27-20.

High-flying Wampum ran into a surprise but managed to regain its poise in time to gain an easy 50-31 decision over East Brook.

The Brookers sported a 13-4 first period score. Continuing their surprising play, the home club left with a 19-11 edge at halftime.

Craine Finds Eye

Then, sensational Coy "Springy" Craine put on an amazing individual scoring show that trampled the Brookers. The "Indians", who won their 12th in 13 tries last night, hit 21 markers in the third to settle the argument.

Craine's 21 points, running the localites' sum to 259 points, highlighted the event. Marich looked exceedingly sharp in annexing 11 points.

Morrow was ace man for the losers with 12 points.

Shenango and Mt. Jackson will play yesterday's postponed game on Tuesday afternoon.

Lions Discuss Post War World

Ideal Conditions For Future Is Aim Of Local Speakers At Noon Luncheon

"What Kind of a Post War World Should the United States Advocate?" was the subject of a discussion by Harry M. Helmick, Roy F. Conway and Attorney William D. Cobau, club members, at the noon luncheon meeting of the Lions club, in The Castleton, Tuesday.

All painted a picture more or less idealistic as to the kind of a post war world they would like to see, and expressed the opinion that some sort of federation of European states should be formed, modeled after our own federation, to insure lasting peace.

The time allotted for the discussion proved much too short, and the matter may be brought up for further discussion at some future date.

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEEALL

Wonder what East Brook Station will have to say about the cold today . . . bet they will report that the mercury went way down below the zero mark . . . that without a doubt is the coldest spot in this area . . . and the citizens of that little settlement like to talk about it too.

Down east we heard where a certain operatic group played in a town about our size after the pleasure gas rationing went into effect and that the Theatre was packed with citizens . . . some had walked as far as 15 miles to attend. High class entertainment it was . . . but not too high that the average person could not understand it . . . wonder what kind of a crowd such a performance would attract here in New Castle . . . would some of you walk two miles to attend? It would do you good, certainly it wouldn't do you any harm to hear some fine music. Those who attend the Cleveland concerts, would you attend a good performance here in New Castle? Don't think you are being low brow when you attend such a performance in your own home town. Keep yoru eyes and ears open . . . maybe you WILL get a chance to educate yourself to a little light classical music.

It's funny how the human brain works . . . how thoughts change. The chap that can figure that one out will really have something. For instance you find a chap who believes one thing and then won't read what anyone else has to say because that other person doesn't think the same way. That is becoming very narrow minded . . . every one has a right to express their own opinion . . . it's your right also to believe whatever you want. Let's not close our mind and eyes to other folks thoughts . . . maybe some day they can help us or we can help them. There is a power greater than man . . . if the world would place its Trust in The Master, events would soon clear themselves.

The English Channel is always rough . . . very rough and a small boat just hasn't any chance to navigate . . . Yet when the British evacuated Dunkirk the English Channel was as calm as the calmest lake . . . small boats brought the men back to England. That makes one stop . . . and think.

Eighty-Eight Are Graduated

January Class Of Ellwood City High School Has Commencement

DR. CHAS. A. PLATT MAKES ADDRESS

ELLWOOD CITY, Jan. 20.—It is "the little bit more, the service beyond duty", that pays the largest dividends and enriches life," Dr. Charles A. Platt, of the department of education and psychology of Grove City college, told the graduates of the January class of 1943 at the commencement exercises held last night at Lincoln auditorium.

Diplomas were presented to 88 members of the class, which is the last to be graduated at mid-year, in the presence of a large number of parents and friends.

Good Address

It was one of the best and most practical addresses given here in a number of years. The theme of his talk, which he emphasized again and again, was "It's not the gas you sell, it's the way you clean the windshield".

Three pillars to build a psychology of life upon were given, being the "musts of life", the "shoulds of life" and the "coulds of life". No credit is deserved for doing well what you are paid to do, but credit is due for the things done beyond the musts and shoulds. With his own plane badly damaged there were no musts or shoulds that impelled Colin Kelly to sink a Japanese battleship, but he could and his service beyond the call of duty" saved the lives of many others.

Also illustrated were the "goodwill" actions by John Wanamaker, the first merchant to offer "your money back if you are not satisfied", and Henry Ford, who established the five-dollar minimum wage and promised a car for every family as the "little bit more" that adds to the lives of others.

The dividends such a policy pays in business, the church, the home, were pointed out by the speaker, who concluded with the dramatic story of "The Good Samaritan".

Graduates Speak

The salutatory address, "Youth's Part in Building the World of Tomorrow", was given by William John Weigle, Jr. He pointed out that the so-called "lost generation" is now giving their lives for the freedom of all men. Today's graduates can work, enlist or further their education so that they will not be found wanting in the years to come.

"A Glimpse Into the Future" was the theme of the valedictory talk by Robert G. Welling, in which he predicted great changes in the automobiles, trains, ships, airplanes and communications of tomorrow, all of which would help to solidify a world fraternity.

Rev. H. M. Patton offered the invocation, and the benediction was given by Rev. F. H. Daubenspeck. The class was presented by Ralph C. Shaffer, high school principal, and the diplomas by Dr. A. M. Gigliotti, president of the board of education. J. Ellis Bell, superintendent of schools, presided.

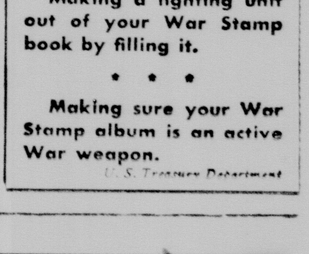
What You Buy With WAR BONDS

Mines, either "floating" or magnetic, are probably the most effective weapons to guard approaches to our harbors. So-called "floating" mines are anchored by a steel cable and ride below the surface of the water. They must be struck by a ship to explode.



Magnetic mines contain a magnetic needle which completes an electric circuit when the steel hull of a ship approaches. Our Navy uses thousands of these mines and their cost, for that reason, runs into the thousands of dollars. But your purchase of War Bonds will help pay for these guardians of our coastal waters. INVEST AT LEAST TEN PERCENT of your income in War Bonds every payday and become a member of the patriotic Ten Percent Club.

Losing Girl Back Home Is Greatest Fear Of Soldier

U. S. O. Hostess In Alaska 16 Months Tells Of Homesick Men's Problems

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Jan. 20.—The soldier's greatest fear is that his wife or sweetheart back home has forgotten him or that another man has taken his place in their affections, Miss Margaret Conrardy, who served as a hostess with the USO at Anchorage, Alaska, for 16 months asserted today.

"The first thing on a soldier's mind is food and then comes a girl," said Miss Conrardy.

There are so many men in Anchorage a girl gets "tired of them," said the hostess, adding:

"There are about 15 men to every girl there. One girl dated a different man for every night for three months."

The girls not only date and dance with the soldiers at weekly jamborees but, according to Miss Conrardy, "many of them come to us with their home problems. "I've looked at so many baby pictures I could draw them. Sometimes the girls get homesick, just as the men do."

Machinery Needed To Reach Food Goal

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 20—M. Clifford Townsend, newly appointed director of food production told a senate committee on Tuesday that he was fearful there is no chance of increased food production in 1943 without an appreciable increase in the allotment of farm machinery.

"Our attitude is that we can't do it, but we will," Townsend told the Truman war investigation committee.

"If the war production board would only give us our last request of 38 percent of 1940 new machinery production and do it now, we could do the job," he said.

Find Woman's Body In Summer Cottage

(International News Service)

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Jan. 20 — Discovery of the bludgeoned body of attractive Mrs. Angela C. Smith in a summer cottage on Tuesday prompted police to broadcast an eight-state alarm for her estranged husband.

Previously war industries operated under a voluntary system.
